

Update

Pistons at Country Day

Pistons stars John Salley, NBA Finals MVP Joe Dumars and James Edwards will be the featured guests at the second annual All-Pro Basketball Camp July 10-14 at Detroit Country Day.

The camp is open to boys and girls ages 10-18. Camp director is Kurt Keener, who coached the Country Day boys basketball team to the Class C state title in March.

Cost is $175, with a portion benefitting Children's Hospital of Michigan.

Because of the large number of enrollees, camp organizers are contemplating a second session July 17-21. For more information, contact Carol Balgenorth at 646-7717.

Sand volleyball

The Royal Oak Recreation Department is offering sand volleyball doubles and triples play for girls in grades 8-12.

There are two sessions — Fridays from June 23 to July 28 and Wednesdays from Aug. 16-30 — from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Matches will be played at Optimist Park, located on Rochester Road north of 13 Mile. There is a $2 drop-in fee per session. For more information, call Elaine Torvinen at 541-5845.

Umps needed

If you're still looking for that perfect part-time summer job, contact the Clawson Junior Baseball program. It's looking for umpires for boys baseball (players are ages 9-18) and girls softball (ages 9-12).

Due to rainouts and cancellations by former umpires, more than 40 games need to be re-scheduled. If you're interested, contact Junior Baseball director Ed Dreslinski at 979-5729.

Troy triple

Three Troy residents did well in the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association tournament held at Romeo.

In championship flight, Carol Turnham was low net with 86-13-73. Zoe Alpern tied with Doris Rudd of Mount Clemens for low net in first flight, both carding 95-19-76. Low gross in third flight was Sandra O'Malley, who shot 97.

The next WMGA tournament is Wednesday at Arrowhead.

It's a girl!

Actress Judy Landers and Seattle Mariners pitcher Tom Niedenfuer Tuesday announced the birth of their first child. Lindsey Ann Landers Niedenfuer weighed in at 7 pounds, 9 ounces when she was born Monday morning at Cedars Sinai Medical Center in Los Angeles, said Joann Geffen, a publicist for the actress.

On the road

Ibrahim Hussein of Kenya, the 1988 Boston Marathon champion, won the 20th annual Peachtree Road Race in Atlanta on Tuesday, edging Mark Nenow of Lexington, Ky. in the final 20 yards of the 10-kilometer (6.2-mile) run. Hussein's unofficial time was 28:13, some 17 seconds off the 27:56 course record set by John Doherty in 1986.

Nenow, 31, is the world record holder for 10K runs with a time of 27:22.

CLAWSON — Whew! That was fast!

Yes, from top to bottom, Tuesday's sixth annual Clawson Firecracker Mile was a quick race.

Even though winners Harvey Mitro, 24, of Sarnia, Ont. and Ella Willis, 31, of Detroit didn't break any records, they led the second fastest men's and the fastest women's fields across the finish line in the race which took runners east on a certified mile course along 14 Mile from Crooks to Main.

Mitro, who made the four-hour round-trip drive from his home a profitable one, won in 4:06.8, just .4 seconds behind Tim Simpson's record time of 4:06.4 set in 1987.

Willis, women's champion of the 10-kilometer Oak Apple Run held June 3 in Royal Oak, won Tuesday in 4:48.7, beating her previous best mile time of 4:51. The Firecracker Mile women's record is 4:38.4 set by Lisa Weidenbach, also in 1987.

The 25th man to finish, Greg Poterala, 24, of Novi, was clocked in 4:54.7, less than '50 seconds behind Mitro. Only the 1987 race had a faster time for 25th place ... it was 4:47.3 that year.

Ending up 25th among the women was Linda Mackey, 37, of Clawson, whose 7:24.3 timing was the fastest for a 25th-place woman in race history.

It wouldn't be stretching the truth to say that 15-year-old Kevin Nemeth of Royal Oak is getting ready to run in the Clawson Firecracker Mile.

Washburn, Bedford and some other star spangled screwups

Freedom in the United States of America was particularly sweet in 1989. It was worth at least five days off for most folks.

Days off aren't anything special to Chris Washburn. The young man has nothing but time these days. The Fourth of July? Well, that's just the day before the fifth of July.

We talk about freedom in very lofty terms this time of year. We harken back to images of forefathers in leather knickers, passing around a quill pen, signing the Declaration of Independence.

We hear the report of muskets. We sneeze at the heavily powdered wigs and wonder why that painting of George Washington that hangs in about a million elementary schools was never finished.

There's plenty about Washburn that is incomplete. There are plenty of voids that haven't been painted in yet. The sad thing is, they'll never be in brilliant shades. Everything is muted tones now.

"Chris Washburn is a great, great player," said Pistons general manager Jack McCloskey, on the eve of the 1986 college draft. "He's undoubtedly the best player out there. He has incredible physical skills. We'd love to have him."

Washburn was 6-foot-11, 255 pounds. He was long gone by the time Detroit got its pick. Golden State grabbed him in the See JIM EVANS, Page 2B

Troy baseball team performs royally

ROCHESTER HILLS — The Troy Royals didn't stumble as they climbed another rung higher on the ladder in the Steele's Fourth of July Tournament at Suburban Softball in Rochester Hills.

The Royals, who won the 12-year-old division a year ago, triumphed in all four of their games in the 13-year-old section of tournament, capping the holiday Tuesday with a 3-1 victory over the Mansfield (Ohio) Explorers.

Chad Marshall pitched a three-hitter for the Royals, who compete in the Sandy Koufax Division of the Macomb Amateur Baseball Federation.

Tom Hallenbeck opened the tour-namment with a no-hitter in the Royals' 3-0 victory over the Explorers. Hallenbeck also had two hits.

Mike Polick collected four singles and a double to spark the Royals' 14-7 victory over the London (Ohio) Stingers.

The Royals reached the championship game with a 3-1 victory over the Sterling Heights Phillies as Roy Brown, who was borrowed from the St. Clair Shores team in the MABF, fired a one-hitter.

Seven Royals were named to the all-tournament team. They were Hallenbeck, Brown, Marshall, Cooper, Polick, Matt Riker and Damon Villereal.

Stone skipping can't be taken for granite

MACKINAC ISLAND — John Kolar of Birmingham out-tossed Jerry McGhee of Wimberley, Texas and Glenn A. Loy of Flint by one point Tuesday to win the annual Joe Gillis Pro-Invitational stone skipping championship on Mackinac Island.

Kolar had skips of 17, 15, 13 and 13. McGhee and Loy, former champions, scored 17, 15, 13 and 12. Loy holds the world record of 24 skips, registered in 1977.

Kolar won the $200 first place prize stuffed in a goblet from the island's Grand Hotel dining room.

Amateur Barry Gorbuff of Traverse City beat second-place Stan Czech of Toledo, Ohio 17 skips to 16 for the Little David Trophy — a 78-pound rock — and a one-year supply of Mackinac Island fudge.

In third place was Glenn A. Loy Sr. from Marco Island, Fla., the father of the pro competitor, with 15 skips.

Tied for fourth place with 14 skips each were Gates Smith, Cincinnati, John Kelly of Denver and Michigan residents Nancy Kolar of Birmingham and the husband and wife team of Harry and Michelle Wilson of Albion.

The write stuff? Not if you ask Mike Tyson

NEW YORK — Heavyweight champion Mike Tyson, in an interview to be televised today, called his biographer a traitor for writing he hit his wife and enjoyed hurting women.

TYSON

Tyson denied the charges made in Jose Torres' book, Fire and Fear, when he was interviewed Saturday in Cleveland by A Current Affair, a nationally syndicated show.

Tyson said Torres, his former friend and adviser, turned on him to make money. Torres wrote Tyson told him he hit his former wife, actress Robin Givens, harder than any ring opponent.

"Perhaps there are some people who want to believe it," Tyson told A Current Affair. "It's absurd."

"As for him (Torres), it's like the jealous woman syndrome: You get a lot of fur coats and jewelry and you get spoiled, then it's bye-bye. I think it was Shakespeare who said, 'I love the act of treason, but I hate a traitor,' and that's my comment on Jose Torres."

Clary's hit helps Braves win

Marty Clary won another game Tuesday night, helping himself at the plate as well as on the mound. The Atlanta Braves rookie pitcher from Clawson improved his record to 2-0 thanks to the Braves' 9-3 victory over the visiting Montreal Expos. Clary, who pitched five innings, gave up two earned runs and seven hits while notching two strikeouts. In Atlanta's five-run surge in the first inning, which wiped out a 2-0 Expos lead, Clary contributed an RBI single off Kevin Gross, 7-8. With two out in the Braves' first, Lonnie Smith doubled and scored on a single by Andres Thomas. After Dale Murphy and ex-Tiger Darrell Evans walked to load the bases, Jeff Blauser stroked a two-run double. Bruce Benedict was intentionally walked to reload the bases and Clary followed with his RBI single. Oddie McDowell walked to score Blauser with the fifth run. Montreal scored its first-inning runs off Clary with two out. Andres Galarraga singled and went to third on a single by Tim Raines. Hubie Brooks singled to right to score Galarraga and move Raines to third.

Raines then scored on a passed ball by Benedict. The Expos drew within 5-3 in the fifth off Clary but got no closer. In other baseball news: THROUGH SIX: Dave Schmidt and Mark Williamson combined on a two-hitter Tuesday night, leading the Baltimore Orioles to an 8-0 shutout of the host Toronto Blue Jays. Schmidt, 8-7, carried a perfect game through six innings before giving up Tony Fernandez' bunt single to lead off the seventh. ALMOST NO. 2: Tom Browning took a perfect game through eight innings Tuesday night, then settled for a two-hitter over 8 1-3 innings in pitching the Cincinnati Reds to a 2-1 victory over the host Philadelphia Phillies. Browning, 7-6, who had a perfect game in a 1-0 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers last Sept. 16, retired the first 24 Phillies he faced before Dickie Thon lined an 0-1 pitch into right-center field for a double.

You can't go home again? "Says who?" asked Lou Whitaker. "Says me," replied catcher Bob Geren of the Yankees, who tagged out Whitaker on this first-inning play. Whitaker tried to score on a single to right by Fred Lynn but was nailed at the plate by Jesse Barfield.

New York Yankees make big discovery in Columbus

NEW YORK — The New York Yankees, seeking help in their starting rotation, may have found it in a journeyman pitcher for his fourth major league team in seven years. Don Schulze, called up from Columbus earlier in the week, scattered six hits over seven innings Tuesday, leading the Yankees to a 1-0 victory over the Tigers. "Schulze got his stuff over and got the outs," Yankees manager Dallas Green said. "He, like (Lance) McCullers, has a tendency to just throw the ball, but he pitched today. He did a nice job. He didn't have much breathing room, but he gave us a special performance." Schulze walked two and struck out four. He has spent the season with the Yankees' Triple-A affiliate at Columbus before being called up Saturday. Prior to that, he pitched with the Chicago Cubs, Cleveland Indians and New York Mets and once hurled in the Tigers' minor league system. "I hope this time I have matured enough to get the job done," said Schulze, 12-23 with a 5.52 earned run average in his major league career. "They told me if I pitch well, there's an opportunity here. That's all I want, I was hitting my locations, I was cutting the fastball a few times (and) the curve was breaking."

Lee Guetterman relieved Schulze, pitching the eight and ninth innings for his 10th save. "I took Schulze out because he threw a lot of pitches and we had a fresh bullpen," Green said. Frank Tanana, 7-8, pitched a complete game for Detroit, leading nine hits, walking one and striking out two. The only run came in the fourth inning. Jesse Barfield ripped a two-out double and Tom Brookens, a former Tiger, scored him with a single to right field. "Yes, it's nice to beat my friends, but they still are my friends," Brookens said. "If you don't get Frank Tanana early, you usually don't get him. Getting a run off him in the fourth is about as late as you'll score off him." Tanana said the pitch to Brookens missed its location, but he had gotten away with the same mistake earlier. "I should know what to pitch to Brook, but I hung one a little bit outside," he said. "He hit another shot off me on almost the same pitch and we caught it." New York's Don Mattingly stretched his hitting streak to 17 games with a first-inning single.

first round. He was the third player selected. He was 21 years old. The entire horizon opened for him. He was on the verge of grasping everything we love to embrace in this country. He was going to be rich. He was going to be successful. Adoration, well that's a natural part of the job description in the NBA. It had the makings of an incredible tale. Instead, Washburn has turned into an incredibly sad tale. This is the land of opportunity and Washburn couldn't handle it. He snorted freedom. He free based liberty. The marching bands played Sousa on Main Streets all over the country this past weekend. All Washburn heard was Taps. The NBA gives a guy three strikes when it comes to drugs. Mighty Casey isn't the only one who has fanned. Washburn has been kicked out of the league. He just turned 24. What's he going to put on his star spangled resume? William Bedford is in the same batter's box. No doubt he's fidgeting. He spent the Fourth of July weekend at the rehab center. Bedford has two strikes. The Pistons expect Bedford to play in the California summer league with the team's rookies and free agents. They aren't expecting much more. Bedford will be on his own. Independence isn't something he handles well. Bedford and Washburn came out of college the same year. Both were picked very early in the draft. Len Bias also was part of the Class of '86 but he won't be at the 10-year reunion. Bias never even saw a pitch in the big leagues. He overdosed on cocaine. He overdosed on the joy-of-being-drafted-by-Boston. He overdosed on success. You wonder what Washburn did over the Fourth of July weekend. Did he go over to the house of his folks and maybe eat a couple of bratwursts? Did he go to the park and watch as Roman candles shot up into the air and filled the sky with all kinds of incredible colors? Did he pledge allegiance to the flag? Did he say thanks for living in the land of freedom? Did he curse that same freedom? They handed him the Horn of Plenty. He blew nothing but sour notes. Bias got the American Dream. He turned it into a national nightmare. Washburn is another chapter to that same sad tale. You wonder which direction Bedford is heading. He has one more chance. The marching bands went down Main Street this past weekend. Here's hoping they'll blow some Sousa for Bedford next Fourth of July. We've already heard "Taps." Way too many times.

Sports Digest

- College
- People from Kentucky are more likely than those from Indiana to emphasize college athletics, according to surveys by the University of Kentucky and Indiana University. While the majority of survey respondents in both states said the level of emphasis on college athletics is "about right" or should be decreased, 12.8 percent of Kentuckians said there should be more emphasis. Just 7.5 percent of Hoosiers said there should be an increase. The surveys, conducted in April, used random telephone dialing, with 705 interviews completed in Kentucky and 776 in Indiana. Both surveys have a margin of error of slightly less than 4 percent.
- Cycling
- Holland's Jelle Nijdam sprinted out of the pack in the final half-mile to win the fourth stage of the 76th Tour de France, a 158-mile stretch from Liege, Belgium to Wasquehal, France. Acacio Da Silva of Portugal, who remained in the pack five seconds behind, kept his overall lead.
- Soccer
- The World Cup qualifying game scheduled for Sunday between the United States and El Salvador has been postponed. FIFA says the game must be played at a neutral country, and may announce a date and site today. Canada and Honduras are possible choices. The United States requested the game be played in September. The game was barred from El Salvador because of violent fans, then appeared bound for Los Angeles and Honduras before the postponement.

165 W. 14 MILE RD. CLAWSON (1 blk. w. of Main St.) MON. - FRI. 7:30-5:00 CLOSED SAT.

For Clawson, it's a march in July

Brenda and Barry Crooke watch the Clawson parade with their flag-waving daughter Heather, 1½. They came from Madison Heights.

Batman and his nemesis, the Joker, ride in the parade.

Jim Martin, 34, of Berkley, and his daughter Nicole, 6, run in the Clawson Firecracker Mile. Nicole was the youngest entrant.

Jacob Chapman, 3, of Troy, tries his hand at "Flip-a-Chick." He didn't flip the "chick" into the bucket, but had fun trying.

Clawson's Keystone Cops use a hose and water balloon to soak Neal Mozdzierz, 12, of Royal Oak.

Beating the drum is a barely visible member of the Conqueror II Drum & Bugle Corps from Ontario.

Ella Willis has her own particular way to cut through red tape. She was the first woman to cross the finish line in the Clawson Firecracker Mile.

15, finished eighth in the women's division in 6:00.6.

According to Ed Kozloff, president of the Motor City Striders, who conduct the race each year, it was the first time a mother and daughter both placed in the top 25 in the Firecracker Mile.

A record field of about 200 runners competed in the race, which is held prior to Clawson's annual Fourth of July parade. The event has grown in stature each year and Tuesday a top prize of $300 was offered along with medals for all finishers.

At the half-mile point, former Michigan State University runner Dennis Topolinski, 21, of East Lansing, held a slight lead with his 2:01 clocking and he was still ahead at the three-quarter mile mark with a 3:05 timing.

But right behind Topolinski all the way was Mitro and with 100 yards to go, Mitro grabbed the lead for good. He won by just half a second over Topolinski, who was timed in 4:07.3.

Mitro brought some impressive credentials with him to Clawson.

A 1988 graduate of the University of Waterloo (Ont.), Mitro ran a 3:39 for 1500 meters — the equivalent of a 3:57 mile — in August of 1988, making him the fifth-ranked 1500 runner in Canada. Mitro holds the Ontario university record for the 800 meters, a 1:49.

Willis edged Cathy Schmidt, 25, of Ann Arbor for the women's title. Schmidt, a 1986 University of Michigan grad who was a three-time All-American in track for the Wolverines, was timed in 4:49.3.

Tuesday's victory continued what has been an outstanding stretch of racing for Willis, Michigan Runner magazine's "Women Athlete of the Year" for 1988 who was the women's winner in the 1988 Free Press Marathon in October Harvey Mitro traveled from Sarnia, Ont. to Clawson to get the Wright stuff and that's what he received. Rod Wright, Firecracker Mile race co-chairman, presented the prizes to the winner.
